

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

Your business is unique. The technologies that power it should be uniquely designed to fit your operations too. Our Professional Services offerings are designed to lighten your workload, drawing on expertise and insights gained over many years and bring greater value to your business. From detailed advice to system design, business modeling to network maintenance, we will help you realise your business' IT potential.

Consulting

With deep market insight and proven track records in the telecommunication and Internet industries, GMS provides you with valuable technical infrastructure advice and business modeling. Through detailed discussion, we help you to visualise how possible scenarios, solutions and technologies will help you solve your ICT problems.

System Design & Customisation

GMS has a full team of system and solution architects who provide infrastructure and system design and customisation to specifically meet your company's needs.

Integration & Implementation

GMS offers network and system integration services to help in the building of IT solutions. Our aim is to help you to implement your applications and supporting Internet infrastructure in a consistent, cost-effective and professional way.

Project Management

Most businesses success will depend, in part, on its ability to achieve high levels of customer care, service delivery and business efficiency. GMS' Project Managers work closely with you coordinating project schedules and activities, supervising network installation and integration. They combine key front-end design and deployment services with operational planning and implementation skills, so that your project is executed on time and on budget.

Measurement & Planning

Planning is made so much easier when you have accurate, timely information available to guide you.

Our consultants can support your on-going infrastructure maintenance, performance measurement and capacity planning needs so that you make enlightened decisions and timely, proactive actions. By combining the most suitable technologies with value-added services your business is better placed to operate in today's dynamic environment.

Support & Maintenance

GMS' support and maintenance services ensure you have a more productive and efficient network with higher availability and better investment returns. The proactive network monitoring, swift response and accurate diagnosis from our highly trained personnel can help to minimise, if not eliminate, disastrous downtime.
